RAILROAD VALUATIONS

Increased by the Board of Equalization at Phoenix

Regarding the assessment of railroads by the territorial board of equalization the Arizona Democrat says:

There has been an increase of about $1,600,000 in the value of assessed railroads over last year's assessment, the total being fixed at $9,041,038.88. Added to this is an assessed value of $100,000 against the Pullman company. This last sum is just like finding that much money.

The value of railroads in Arizona exempt from taxes was determined to be about $11,000,000, making a grand total of railroad property in Arizona of about $22,000,000.

Of the $9,041,038.88, the Santa Fe, which passes under an act of congress at the rate of $1.75 per mile, is estimated to show about $2,000,000 valuation.

The values adopted by the board create an increase of 22 per cent in taxable values for the railroads.

There are about twenty railroads in the territory that are assessed. The Southern Pacific was raised from $11,000 to $13,000 per mile, El Paso and Northwestern from $7,600 to $11,000 per mile, the Gila Valley, Globe and Northern from $6,000 to $7,500 per mile, the Maricopa and Phoenix from $5,750 to $6,250 per mile, the Arizona and New Mexico from $5,000 to $5,500 per mile, the United Verde at $5,000 per mile, the same as last year, the Morencio Southern from $3,697 to $5,000 per mile, and the Grand Canyon from $4,500 to $7,000 per mile.

In determining the assessed value of exempt roads the board fixed the Santa Fe main line at $13,000 per mile, the Santa Fe, Prescott & Phoenix at $9,000 per mile and the Phoenix & Eastern at $5,000 per mile.

The smaller roads and branch lines into mining camps had their values fixed from $2,000 per mile up to $5,000 per mile, according to the length and profit of operation.

The total railroad mileage in Arizona, exclusive of the main line of the Santa Fe, is 962.61, on which the total valuation last year was fixed by the equalizers was $7,324,672.50. The board fixed the total for this mileage this year at $9,041,038.88. The Santa Fe main line, 336 miles of road, the estimated value of which last year was $1,894,233.59, which, according to the increase this year amounts to $5,027,542. On this the territory collects $1.75 per mile in taxes under a congressional act.

He was convicted and turned loose at the Alexander tonight.
